[A] One spring morning at four o'clock the first cuckoo arrived in the Valley of the Moomins. He sat on the blue roof of Moominhouse and cried out 'cuckoo' eight times — though his voice sounded like he had a cold, for it⁽²¹⁾ was still a bit early in the spring.

Then he flew away to the east.

[B] *Moomintroll woke up and lay a long time looking at the ceiling⁽²²⁾ before he realized where he was. He had slept a hundred nights and a hundred days, and his dreams still filled his head trying to tempt him back to sleep.

But as he was turning from side to side trying to find a comfortable new spot to sleep he caught sight of something that made him quite wide awake — Snufkin's bed was empty!

[C] Moomintroll sat up. Yes, Snufkin's hat had gone, too. 'Goodness!' he said, moving quietly to the open window. Ah-ha, Snufkin had been using the rope-ladder. Moomintroll climbed out the window and went cautiously down on his short legs. He could see Snufkin's footprints plainly in the wet earth, wandering here and there and rather difficult to follow, until suddenly they⁽²⁴⁾ did a long jump and crossed over themselves. 'He must have been very happy,' decided Moomintroll. 'He did a *somersault here — that's clear enough.'

Suddenly Moomintroll lifted his nose and listened. Far away Snufkin was playing his gayest song: 'All small beasts should have ribbons on their

*Moomintroll ムーミン (北欧の妖精族の少年)

somersault 宙返り

tails.' And Moomintroll began to run towards the music.

[D] Down by the river he came upon Snufkin who was sitting on the bridge with his legs hanging over the water, his old hat pulled down over his ears.

'Hello,' said Moomintroll sitting down beside him.

'Hello to you,' said Snufkin, and went on playing.

The sun was up now and shone straight into their eyes, making them open and shut. They sat swinging their legs over the running water feeling happy and carefree.

[E] They had had many strange adventures on this river and had brought home many new friends. Moomintroll's mother and father always welcomed all their friends in the same quiet way, just adding another bed and putting in another leaf to make the dining-room table bigger. And so Moominhouse was rather full — a place where everyone did what they liked and seldom worried about tomorrow. Very often unexpected and disturbing things happened, but nobody ever had time to be bored, and that is always a good thing.

[F] When Snufkin came to the last verse of his spring song he put his harmonica in his pocket and said:

'Is Sniff awake yet?'

'I don't think so,' answered Moomintroll. 'He always sleeps a week longer than the others.'

'Then we must certainly wake him up,' said Snufkin as he jumped down. 'We must do something special today because it's going to be fine.'

[G] So Moomintroll made their secret signal under Sniff's window: three ordinary whistles first and then a long one through his hands, and it (29): 'There's something going on.' They heard Sniff stop snoring, but nothing moved up above.

'Once more,' said Snufkin. And they signalled even louder than before.

Then the window banged up. 'I'm asleep,' shouted an angry voice.

'Come on down and don't be angry,' said Snufkin. 'We're going to do something very special.'

Then Sniff smoothed out his wrinkled ears and climbed down the rope-ladder. (I should perhaps mention that they had rope-ladders under all the windows because it took so long to use the stairs.)

[H] It certainly promised to be a fine day. Everywhere confused little creatures just woken from their long winter sleep moved about visiting places they used to like, and busied themselves airing clothes, brushing out their moustaches and getting their houses ready for the spring.

Many were building new homes and I am afraid some were quarrelling.
(³¹You can wake up in a very bad temper after such a long sleep.)

The Spirits in the trees sat combing their long hair, and on the north side of the tree trunks, baby mice dug tunnels amongst the snow-flakes.

[I] 'Happy spring!' said an elderly earthworm. 'And how was the winter with you?'

'Very nice, thank you,' said Moomintroll. 'Did you sleep well, sir?'

'Fine,' said the worm. 'Remember me to your father and mother.'

So they walked on, talking to a lot of people in this way, but the higher up the hill they went the fewer people there were, ⁽³²⁾ ⁽³³⁾ and at last they only saw one or two mother mice sniffing around and spring-cleaning.

[J] It was wet everywhere.

'Ugh — how nasty,' said Moomintroll, picking his way carefully through the melting snow. ⁽³⁴⁾ 'So much snow is never good for a Moomin. Mother said so.' And he sneezed.

[K] 'Listen Moomintroll,' said Snufkin. 'I have an idea. What about going to the top of the mountain and making a pile of stones to show that we were the first to get there?'

'Yes, let's,' said Sniff, and set off at once (35) get there before the others.

Maria: Yeah, but I found it again, and you'll never guess where.

Mami: Uh, in your book bag?

Maria: No. Someplace strange. You'll never guess.

Mami: Okay, then. (37)

Maria: You see, what happened was that I was cooking dinner. I'd just put a chicken into the oven to cook and I decided to study while I was waiting. But I wanted some vegetables, too.

Mami: Of course. (38)

Maria: And I had some frozen vegetables in the freezer, so I set a timer to remind me to take the vegetables out and cook them about 20 minutes before the meat would be done, and when the timer went off, I went out to the kitchen, got out the vegetables, put them on to cook and went back to my desk, but when I got there...

Mami: (39)

Maria: Right. So I figured I had carried it into the kitchen and put it down there.

Mami: On a table top or the top of the refrigerator...

Maria: Exactly, but when I went to look, it wasn't there.

Mami: Did you put it down someplace else on your way to the kitchen?

Maria: That's what I thought, so I walked through again very slowly looking everywhere, but...

Mami: You couldn't find it.

Maria: Right. So I started looking in other rooms and I looked inside the desk and in my book bag... but I just couldn't find it.

Mami: That's strange!

Maria: And while I was looking, the timer went off. The chicken and vegetables were done.

Mami: So, (40)

Maria: I just gave up, and sat down and ate. And then, after dinner, I decided I wanted something sweet, so I went to the freezer to get some ice-cream, and...

Maria: Yeah. Pretty stupid, right?
